JOSH HOLLIDAY IS GOING TO WORK THIS YEAR

Written by Sid Carreiro | Photos by Dwayne Larson

Josh "Cheeks" Holliday debuted at WPW PAIN ACTUALLY in an impromptu match that saw him transition from event staff and referee to professional wrestling. Since then, he's challenged for the IMPACT Championship, had an impressive showing in the Rumble in the Burt match and picked up his first singles win at PAIN ACTUALLY RETURNS. Now he's got his sights set on winning the WPW Voyageur Cup and getting a shot at the WPW Championship at the Manitoba Museum!

WHY KORBA WHY?

WE HEAR FROM THE WPW GM AT WRECK ROOM

Written by Tova Nagy | Photos by Dwayne Larson

James Korba shocked WPW fans when he refused to count the 3 in the triple threat match for the WPW Championship at COLD OUT, destroying Bobby Schink's chance at becoming a two-time Champion. This wasn't the first time GM Korba was involved in an important conclusion. At PAIN ACTUALLY 2019 and COLD OUT 2023, GM Korba took it upon himself to count the pinfall after the referee was incapacitated. During the heat of the triple threat at last month's COLD OUT, he jumped in the ring again and fans were eager to see him award the championship to Bobby Schink, only to see him flip Schink off and refuse to count. But why? We hope to learn more at WPW WRECK ROOM on Feb 18!

16 MEN - TWO NIGHTS - WITH A SHOT AT THE WPW CHAMPIONSHIP ON THE LINE!

Written by Bruno Schofield | Photos by Dwayne Larson

On March 8 and 9, WPW takes over the West End Cultural Centre for a special two-night tournament for the Voyageur Cup. Sixteen of the top wrestlers from all over North America will battle in a single elimination tournament, where the winner will get a shot at the WPW Championship when WPW returns to the Manitoba Museum in April. The Voyageur Cup tournament features local standouts like James Roth, Chad Daniels, Josh "Cheeks" Holliday, AJ Sanchez, Bobby Schink and ATM. Six men with very different stories that they are looking to finish. James Roth is on a 10-match winning streak, while Josh Holliday finally won his first singles match in December. AJ Sanchez and Bobby Schink are both former WPW Champions and are hoping to use this tournament to propel them back into WPW title contention. Chad Daniels and ATM may not be fan favourites, but they are certainly oddsmakers favourites to win the Voyageur Cup and punch their ticket to the Manitoba Museum. Michael Allen Richard Clark is in phenomenal shape and is ready to go all weekend.

Judas Icarus, Conan Lycan and Solomon Tupu all return to WPW looking for their first wins. Icarus is widely considered to be one of the top three wrestlers in Canada today, while Lycan and Tupu have been traveling all over America racking up dominant wins. Sebastian Wolfe, AJ Ziegler, Campbell Myers and Mark Wheeler make their long awaited WPW debuts, and what better way than to win the first ever WPW tournament? Mo Jabari defeated 14 other men in the Rumble in the Burt match in October, but his shot at the WPW Championship was marred in controversy and interference. Unfortunately for Kid Chocolate, he'll have to run the gauntlet and win four matches in two days to get another shot at the title.

Who will outlast the rest and prove they are the best? Who will be the first winner of the Voyageur Cup?

VANNA BLACK

Vanna Black made her WPW debut at PAIN ACTUALLY RETURNS in December, picking up a win over Tootie Lynn and quickly solidifying herself as a major player in the WPW women's division. Black is a native of Hamilton, Ontario and has been dominating the East Coast of Canada since her arrival on the scene in 2022. She has gone up against some of the best, including a battle royale match in TNA for a shot at the Knockouts Championship.

Vanna Black returns to WPW on February 18 at WRECK ROOM to take on another fresh face, Nikita. These two are no strangers, having battled in Ontario several times, but this time their bitter feud makes its way to the Rec Room and WPW!
